Elaborate Reception.

The distinctive charms of Mrs. Charles K. Oldham as a hostess were emphasized by the reception given Thursday afternoon at her home on North Maysville street.

The spacious old home was artistically decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers, and presented a beautiful scene. On the veranda the guests were met by Misses Lodema Wood and Rebecca Calk, and shown in the hall. Little Miss Dorothy Tyler received the cards and Misses Mary Tyler, Frances Tipton, Mrs. A. M. Bourne, Mrs. Lizzie Wilson, Mrs. Anna Tipton and Mrs. Wm. Carrington entertained.

The pretty frappe bowl, garnished with luscious purple grapes, was presided over by Misses Rebecca Kendall and Mary Cobb Stofer.

In the parlor in the receiving line with the hostess were Mrs. John Tyler, of Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. F. C. Duerson, Mrs. J. E. Grubbs, of Winchester; Miss Sophia Burdin, of Lexington, and Mrs. A. E. Oldham. Those assisting Mrs. Oldham in the parlors were Mrs. Pierce Winn, Mrs. Robt. Tipton, Mrs. D. W. Lipscomb, of Nashville, Tenn., and Misses Nettie Horton and Eula Perry, while in the dining Mrs. John Winn and Mrs. Ben R. Turner served delicious individual ices, cakes and mints.

The dining table looked lovely, decorated with a lace cloth and elaborate center pieces of graceful pink and white asters and lighted with white tapers shaded in green.

Peasant music was furnished by an orchestra in the upper hall.

About one hundred and seventy-five guests were present and pronounced this one of the most elaborate and enjoyable receptions they ever attended.

Olympian Spring Dance.

The farewell ball given at Olympian Springs on Wednesday evening of last week was one of the most attractive and beautiful entertainments given at the hotel this season and the beautiful ball room never shown to greater advantage. The ceiling and side walls were artistically festooned with garlands of Southern smilax and streamers of orange and white bunting, while the lights overhead were also covered in orange color which lent a soft radiance to the scene. At the far end of the ball room a sunflower hedge was formed of dwarf pine trees and quantities of fresh sunflowers from the distant hills. Behind this rose a full moon, which cast its soft rays over the merry dancers.

Miss Carrie White Bean, of Birmingham, Ala., the honored leader, gowned in a French costume of pink and blue chiffon over white lace, assisted by Mr. Priest Kemper, of Mt. Sterling, opened the ball with a grand march, followed by a number of pretty and intricate German figures.

The ball room was crowded with the graceful dancers, as well as the chaperones and the many guests, who came for this beautiful occasion.

The feature of the evening was the drawing of the two beautiful prizes, an artistic parlor for the women and a pair of silk hose for the men, presented by Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal, the popular managers of the Springs for this season.

The dancing lasted until early dawn, and after a delightful repast at midnight, the happy dancers began with greater enthusiasm and renewed energy.

Family Reunion Dinner.

On Thursday, Aug. 31, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hamilton entertained at their home the families of her father's sisters and brothers, all of whom, with the exception of Mr. Jno. T. Woodford, near Mt. Sterling, reside in Bourbon country. The game chicken, every kind of wild bird, small game and fish, which the law permits to be taken at this season, including also the little promise of Kentucky's fanciest perker, the Woodburn Southdown lamb and the tender loin of "The Flat Creek Mary," were a feature-sample of their kind at the dinner, to which the number sitting were more than forty.

Many members of the family, of which there were nine brothers and sisters—the Woodford family—were prevented, for various compelling reasons, from attending and were only there in the spirit of brotherhood.

Notwithstanding, the day was ideally pleasant for a dozen automobiles to bring them from Bourbon, and the renewal of family associations and memories was characteristic and made most enjoyable, as each feature seemed to be a rival of every other in the combination that made up the whole day's enjoyment.

Mr. J. C. Hamilton was at more, if possible, than his best as the conceded most popular and finest host in the Blue Grass, of the entire Blue Grass region. "Flat Creek" is not excelled in natural and artificial beauty and grandeur, unless it be the Haggins and Harkness places. Mrs. Hamilton was equal to the occasion, for the like of which her husband is distinguished in presiding.

Prewitt Family Reunion.

The 8th annual reunion of the Prewitt family was held at Oil Springs last Thursday, which was one of the most delightful this prominent old family has held in years.

Last year there was one birth in the family, James Prewitt Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn, of Stanton, Ky. No marriages have occurred since the last reunion and no deaths. Oil Springs is an ideal place of gathering and the day was a perfect one and much enjoyed and a feature of the day was the elegant picnic dinner which was served in the ball room at the Springs.

The reunion is held every year in August, at different places and is always an event of much interest, as the family is represented throughout Central Kentucky.

DON'T SNEER AT SENTIMENT

Has Been, and Still Is, a Powerful Factor in the Improvement of the World.

That which the great body of men feel and desire, that is the thing which is going to be done sooner or later. Sentiment is not a thing to be sneered at. It is to be regulated and limited to its proper sphere. We must distinguish between true and false sympathy and sentiment. We must believe that it is a social function to widen sympathy. I am becoming more and more charitable to the unscientific idealists who interest themselves in these subjects; more and more patient toward the negative critics of society, because all of these bring to the knowledge of the public the abuses that must be corrected, constantly making the public conscience more sensitive. People cannot sympathize with things which they have not touched. It is marvelous to see how the attitude changes when one is brought into close personal touch with misery. That is the service which is done by friendly visiting, by the social settlements, by all things that enlist the sympathy of a larger and larger number of persons. It is only after we know what we want that there is any wish to embody those things in legislation; or any need for the sociologic expert to pronounce on those projects. Before we can win the things that will improve society we must win the great body of the people to desire those things.—Prof. Frank A. Fetter, in The Survey.

THE PESSIONIST

Silas Corn Cob—Old Josh Medder had a hundred dollars saved up to bury himself with, and what do you think he done wid it? Why, went an' got married!

Abe Crossbar—Wal, that's about the same thing.

DANGEROUS SPORT.

First Lady (reading a newspaper)—This golf seems to be a very dangerous game. Did you see what happened to a man named Taylor? He went into bunker and was in two when he came out.

Second Lady—How dreadful!

"Yes, here are the words: 'Taylor getting out in two, Braid secured a half.'"

"Does it say what happened to the other half?"

"No; but there was worse to follow. According to the report, Taylor then fell altogether to pieces."—Word of Golf.

MANY ROSES ON BUSH.

Hugo Lilienthal, the landscape gardener of this city, has startled horticulturists by announcing that he is planning to graft 2,000 varieties of roses on one bush, and that he expects the bush to show the bloom of almost every variety of rose known in the United States.

Lilienthal says that he has 100 varieties of roses already blooming on the bush.—Berkeley Correspondence San Francisco Chronicle.

MESOPOTAMIAN FANS.

The confusion of tongues had just fallen on Babel.

Thus we see the tower was really the first grandstand.

PRACTICAL RELIGION.

THE LIE AND THE RESULT

Mr. Smith's Unfortunate Experience Should Be a Lesson to Other Married Men.

It doesn't pay for a man to play the martyr or to pretend things that are not. A certain man in West Soinerville, whose name might be Smith, has a desire to be classed as a sporty man and a high flyer. A neighbor, riding with him to work in the car, made a commonplace remark about the change of the fashions with the advent of spring.

"Yes," sighed Smith, "this confounded fashion business sure makes a dent in one's pocketbook. Now, I dare say," and he paused, figuring how high he dare go. "I suppose I have spent $250 this spring for new gowns and hats and stockings and that sort of thing."

Smith intended the neighbor to think he had been liberal to his wife and the neighbor did think so. But, unfortunately, the neighbor told his wife and the wife told Mrs. Smith. It so happened that Smith had cut down his wife's allowance for spring gewgaws because of the increased cost of living and the night after the neighbor's wife had visited her, she had a talk with Smith.

"It's all over," was her final word, "unless you tell me who you spent the $250 on. I know you spent it, because you hadn't any left for me." Smith and his neighbor don't speak now.—Boston Traveler.

IN HURRY TO GET MARRIED

New York Boy of Fourteen, Victim of Cupid, Saving All His Earnings for a Wife.

A youthful giant in the person of Stefano Cannarato, 14 years old, who until ten days ago lived with his parents, was arraigned before Justice Hoyt, in the children's court at New York, recently, charged with having run away from home and with being a disorderly boy. His father complained that the boy was working, but had never turned over a penny of his earnings, saying he intended saving it in order to be married.

In court Stefano, who is nearly six feet tall and well built, said he was getting $3 a week and his board where he is employed and was saving every dollar in order to take a wife. Justice Hoyt was compelled to smile and asked the boy if he had selected his future bride. The boy blushingly acknowledged he had, but when excitedly questioned by his father refused to give her name.

MELON PATCH IN CORN FIELD.

I learned a lesson from a western boy who was left in charge of my vacation home while I was in the western states preaching. Showing me about his celery and his potatoes, he led me at last into the cornfield, and there in the middle, all out of sight, was a melon patch two or three rods square. He chuckled and I laughed, for what marauder would think of hunting melons in such a place? I find there are two things that boys and men feel it is no sin to steal, grapes and melons; yet these are the very things that give us most trouble to grow successfully and the loss of which we most keenly feel.—E. P. Powell, in Outing.

A SURE SIGN.

"See here, Mr. Binks, the young man you sent to do that plumbing work at my house was a new and inexperienced hand."

"Why, sir, he is a very good and careful worker. What was wrong about his work?"

"I haven't examined his work at all."

"Then how do you know he was inexperienced?"

"Because he had all his tools with him when he came, and never left the job until he had finished it."—Baltimore American.

THE CAPTAIN'S DILEMMA.

Fred—Did you know that Captain Twibble had two left legs?

Clark's Weekly News of the Harness Horse

(By Palmer L. Clark)

It is too bad that the bustling city of Muskogee, Okla., has allowed itself to be made the tool of bookmakers and pool room owners in permitting a continuous, merry-go-round running meeting on its splendid trotting track. While such a meeting may mean a little present success, it cannot but work harm to that locality in the long run as a breeding and trotting point. Such has been the history of every trotting plant that has been induced to help the gamblers by giving running meetings. Far from being the "Sport of Kings," such running meetings deteriorate into nothing more or less than a gambling machine, little different from roulette or the paddle wheel. They do not tend to promote any legitimate phase of the horse industry, but simply afford means for bookmakers and pool rooms to continue their business, under cover in most cities and a menace to good citizenship wherever they are permitted.

For instance, the gamblers make arrangements with the owners or managers of a racing plant to give a running meeting. Said managers are either guaranteed a certain sum aside from gate receipts or any other source of income, or a percentage of the money taken in by the various pool rooms in various parts of the country, so that it is a "cinch" the association will make money regardless of any local support. The reports of the meeting now running at Muskogee are published in detail in the Metropolitan daily newspapers and in fact in the sporting columns of papers all over the country. Why?

Solely and simply for the benefit of the pool room sharks and gamblers.

Legitimate trotting meetings which are patronized by the best citizens of the country, which tend to the advancement of the great breeding interest of the country are dismissed with a line or nothing at all by these papers because they are conducted without gambling being the paramount interest. Editors and owners of such newspapers will feel highly indignant at being charged with playing into the hands of the gamblers; but they are doing so, nevertheless.

This season the Muskogee Trotting Association has received the largest entry list for its fall meeting of any association in the United States, number and size of purses considered; but it is doubtful if such desirable results will long continue if these protracted running meetings are repeated. Muskogee is now getting a lot of free advertising in the Metropolitan and other daily papers which publish the list of entries and other quotations on this merry-go-round game; but the time will come, if continued, when the citizens of that section will have to count the cost and will pay dearly for the present revenue and benefits. Long drawn out running meetings have invariably put a stop to racing and speculation of all kinds in every city that has tried it in the past, many of which were in better shape, from the standpoint of popularity, wealth, etc., to carry them on successfully than Muskogee. It is only necessary to mention the cities of New York and Chicago as absolute proof of this. If the better element in sporting circles of the Oklahoma city are not active and farseeing, history will repeat itself in due time in Muskogee and the results will be detrimental to the breeding interests of the American light harness horse.

Almost without exception, our greatest racing stallions have dropped out of sight when their racing days were over, or at least until their colts have reached an age and been given opportunities to demonstrate their ability to transmit race horse quality, as sires. As the reputation of a stallion as a sire is the supreme test and is the honor so eagerly sought for by owners, it has always seemed strange that the early years of a prospective sire should be overlooked and a handicap put on his future. A few choice mares in his two and three-year-old form would not lessen his chance as a race horse or prevent his obtaining a fast record at maturity, with the results that his colts would be old enough to "show" when he came to be offered for public service.

Allerton, Axtell, Kremlin, Nelson and other record-breaking stallions had to shoulder this handicap. Among this season's "comebacks" in this class is the great Searchlight (5) [2:03], which had ten world's records to his credit when retired. From a racing standpoint, Searchlight was the "greatest ever" by breeding and individuality and the show being made by his colts is no more than was to be expected. He made three very limited seasons in California before going to Kentucky, and from his first crop came C The Limit, 2:04, this season's unbeaten sidewheeler in this country, Aerolite, 2:07, sire of the un-pion pacing two-year-old. Dawn O'Light, 2:17, a daughter, will, barring accidents, enter the 2:10 list, and Alberta, 2:12, has yet to meet his equal on the Canadian tracks this season, while there is quite a number from his limited seasons in Kentucky knocking at the door of fame. Last year and this season, Searchlight has had opportunities in keeping with his merits, while his owner, Mr. E. E. Smoot, has the means and inclination to give his colts the advantages so necessary to success of even a tried and proven great sire like the son of Darknight and Nora Mapes. Those who have patronized this class of stallions in the hands of such progressive owners can rest easy regarding future profits.

Farmers, mechanics, railroad workers, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pain cannot stay when it is used.

STATUE TO A DOG.

At the entrance to Grayfriars' churchyard, Edinburgh, is a statue and drinking fountain combined (at which dogs may drink), erected to the memory of Grayfriars' Bobbie, a Scotch terrier. Bobbie's master died and was buried at Grayfriars' churchyard, and the dog persisted in following his late master and could not be persuaded to leave the graveyard, ultimately being found dead near the grave.

BUT BOOKS LIVE ON.

Many a man lives a burden to the earth; but a good book is the precious life blood of a master spirit, embalmed and treasured up on purpose to a life beyond life. It is true no age can restore a life whereof, perhaps, there is no great loss, and revolutions of ages do not oft recover the loss of a rejected truth, for the want of which whole nations fare the worse. We should be wary, therefore, what persecution we raise against the living labors of public men, how we spill that seasoned life of man, preserved and stored up in books, since we see a kind of homicide may be thus committed, sometimes a martyrdom, and, if it extend to the whole impression, a kind of massacre, whereof the execution ends not in the slaying of an elemental life, but strikes at the ethereal and fifth essence, the breath of reason itself slays an immortality rather than a life.—Milton, Areopagitica.

Southern Plantation FOR SALE

3,000 acre plantation, with about 1,000 acres under cultivation, balance of the land in timber, but the saw timber has been sold and is being removed. However the land may be used for pasturing purposes during the time the timber is being removed.

This is a fine river plantation; never overflows; soil is a black sandy loam adapted to raising corn, cotton and diversified farming.

The improvements on this place consist of an old ante-bellum home, with fine shade trees and beautiful surroundings, about fifty cottages for renters and a new cotton gin mill that cost $5,000 and other buildings that generally go with a place of this kind.

The property is located on the Tallapoosa river in Tallapoosa county, and besides the property above described, there is a water power site on the river that will be valuable in the near future.

We will sell this plantation for $37,500; terms $10,000 cash, balance in five equal yearly payments, with interest payable annually at 6 per cent.

We recommend this as being one of the finest plantations in the South and know of no place of equal value that can be bought at these low figures.

ADMIRE THE TELEPHONE GIRL

According to This, It Is Little Less Than a Sin to Get Impatient With One of Them.

One member of the family was quarreling over the wire with the telephone operator at the other end. When the brief dispute was ended another member of the family said: "You ought not to do that. You ought never to say an impatient word to a telephone operator. You can't do enough to make the work easy for them. Were you ever in a telephone exchange?"

"No," replied the guilty one, looking repentant.

"Well, go to the first one you have an opportunity to visit. The manager will have some one show you through, and you never will lose patience again with one of those girls. You will be humiliated and amazed and instructed to see what wonderful work they do—what impersonal, patient and really self-sacrificing work they perform, hour after hour—nerve-racking, straining work for a thankless public. You will respect and esteem every one of them and you will feel that nothing is too good for them, instead of being critical of a slight mistake that may at times creep in. The wonder is that they do anything right, considering the difficulties with which they have to contend, instead of giving us the really marvelous service they do. If you want a lesson in patience, forbearance, fortitude, endurance and all the other virtues, don't fail to visit a telephone exchange."

HOW ANTHONY HOPE BEGAN

The Novelist's Start as a Writer Came Out of Accidental Meeting With Editor.

The story of how Anthony Hope Hawkins became an author is an interesting one.

By profession Mr. Hawkins is a lawyer; but he was always a bookworm. Many years ago he met a widely known editor who was so struck with the way he discussed literature that he asked him if he ever did any writing himself, and that if so would he allow him to see some of his work.

The young lawyer was not long in producing one of his manuscripts.

"It's mine," said the editor, after reading a few pages, "want to sell it?" Mr. Hawkins jumped at the chance, suggesting the modest remuneration of $5 a thousand words.

"I'll give you several times that amount and we'll start publishing right away," said the editor.

It was not long before Mr. Hawkins received his first proofs signed "Anthony Hope;" he was undecided about adding his last name. "It doesn't matter," said the editor, "it's the stuff that counts."

BOY HERO HONORED.

A little boy of seven, Maurice Nicou, was regarded with wonderful interest and tenderness by a vast assemblage at the Sorboine, Paris, when he was placed on a table on a platform to receive a prize for an extraordinary deed of heroism. Just a twelvemonth ago he was playing near some salt marshes in company with a child of four, when he fell into a pool, and he went helplessly after it with the water up to his shoulders, and never relaxed his efforts until he had got his companion, who was half buried in the mud at the bottom, safe again in dry ground. The child was quite unconscious, but after an hour's careful attention it was revived. His father, who had brought him up to Paris, and who is himself a gallant man, could not refrain from tears as the account of his son's brave deed was read out to that delighted assemblage.

CONSERVATIVE METHOD.

"When you make a speech you never tell us anything we didn't know," said the constituent.

"Of course," replied Senator Sorghum. "The idea in addressing the people is to express their own ideas. Then they give you credit for being a smart man because you agree with them."

NOT SO BAD.

"He always asks a girl's permission to kiss her."

"The idea!"

"And then if she says no he kisses her anyhow."

"Bring him over and introduce him."—Houston Post.

To the Qualified Voters of the City Primary to be Held Oct. 6, 1911:

I am a candidate for City Assessor of Mt. Sterling, subject to the Democratic Primary, Oct. 6, 1911. If nominated and elected I promise an efficient discharge of the duties of the office of Assessor and without additional remuneration will tender my services to assist in the general improvement of our unbricked streets until they will be our pride, instead of our shame, as in the past.

I will very much appreciate your vote and influence.

Respectfully submitted,

RANDALL S. STOKLEY.

MR. E. A. FLYNN.

Mr. Ewing A. Flynn has authorized us to announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Councilman in the Fourth Ward of the City of Mt. Sterling before the primary of October 6th.

Mr. Flynn is at present bookkeeper for the McCormick Lumber Company and is a young man of sobriety, industry and sterling worth. If nominated and elected we are sure he will discharge his duties honestly and impartially and render entire satisfaction to his constituents.

The Lexington Herald of September 2nd copied two announcements from our columns and did not credit us with them, but not being of a peevish disposition we will not register a kick. We are only too glad to know we can be of some service to our friends.

We have often heard it said that people naturally like to be humbugged, and if they take any stock in the so-called Fusion Ticket in Lexington, after having had a sample of it in the county, we will be prepared to believe it.

Now that the brick streets are finished, the next thing is to devise some way to keep them clean.

Judge Young observed Labor Day by laboring on a large number of lawbreakers.

R. S. STOKLEY.

We wish to call our readers' attention to the card of Mr. R. S. Stokley appearing in this issue announcing his candidacy for City Assessor.

Mr. Stokley, who has been connected with the Standard Oil Company in this city for many years, is one of the best known men in our city.

He is honest and industrious and thoroughly competent and should he win the office he seeks will no doubt make Mt. Sterling one of the best Assessors it has ever had. We ask the Democratic voters to consider his claims and he authorizes us to say that he will appreciate and be grateful for their support.

Opens Campaign at Bowing Green.

Hom. Jas. B. McCreary opened his campaign for Governorship last Monday before a large and enthusiastic crowd.

He answers the questions put to him by Judge O'Rear and propounds the Judge a few himself.

He states clearly his position on all matters and urges the voters to do their duty.

The following are some of the questions he asks Judge O'Rear to answer:

Judge O'Rear wrote the resolutions adopted at the Republican State Convention which endorsed the Administration of President Taft and which recommended President Taft for re-nomination as the Republican candidate for President.

In this connection, I wish to ask the Republican candidate for Governor, Judge O'Rear, questions which are very interesting to all the people of Kentucky and which involve cheaper clothing, cheaper food, cheaper farming machinery and implements, cheaper mechanics' tools and also justice under the law.

Do you indorse President Taft's veto of the bill reducing the existing tariff taxes on wool and woolen goods?

Do you indorse President Taft's veto of the bill reducing tariff taxes on Cotton Goods?

Do you indorse the votes against the Farmers' Free List Bill, which were cast by Senator Bradley and Representative Powers and your Campaign Chairman, Representative Langley?

Do you indorse the Payne-Aldrich Tariff Bill, which President Taft signed, and which he said was the best Republican tariff law ever passed?

Do you indorse the pardon by Governor Wilson of Taylor, Finley, Howard and Powers?

You have been silent on these questions, some of which involve the reduction of the price of clothing, food, farming machinery and mechanics' tools, to the amount of hundreds of millions of dollars.

These questions are of grave and vital importance to the people of Kentucky, and the people of Kentucky want to know where you stand. Come out candidly and say where you are.

For the benefit of our readers we will reproduce Mr. McCreary's speech in full in our next issue, lack of space preventing this week.

Why are Wagons Painted?

A cheap wagon is painted to hide defects in the wood and make it look attractive to the purchaser.

Even the paint is of poor quality and wears off quickly, leaving the wood exposed to the weather.

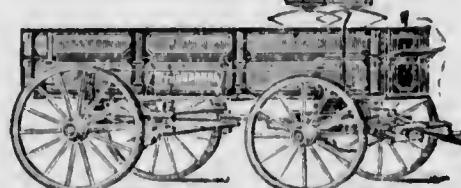

A Studebaker is painted to preserve the wood and protect it from the elements.

Even when the boxing is forced into the hub, it is covered with pure lead in order to keep moisture out of the hub.

You cannot see that, but it's there just the same.

The paint used on a

FAVORITE SPORT OF "CHINK"

Beetle Fight Furnishes John Chinaman With Enjoyment While the Battle Lasts.

Charlie Ling, the importation from the Orient who keeps the laundry in your street, may seem a very sleepy-eyed celestial in the mornings, but you ought to see him at night when he goes to a beetle fight.

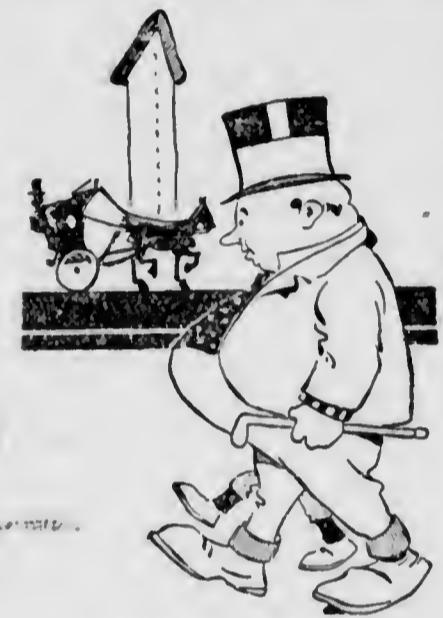

About midnight he and a dozen other Chinamen will gather in a little back room. Charlie rolls cigarettes with his long, slim, yellow fingers and talks in a gurgle. Another Chinaman puts a bowl with a glass cover on a table. Inside the bowl two beetles are placed.

Then the fight starts. A circle forms about the table as the Chinamen edge closer to watch the battle between the two little insects. Occasionally there is a low word spoken. The eyes of the Chinamen are bright. They are betting on their favorite beetles. The large, dark beetle is the favorite. Charlie Ling has a month's profits from his laundry on that one. The beetles struggle across the sides of the bowl. Back and forth they roll, each trying for a death grip. Suddenly they are motionless.

Snip! The head of the smaller insect rolls off. The big one is the winner.

Immediately bets are paid up. There is chattering in the native tongue, then a silence. The Chinamen file out of the room and only the headless beetle remains lying in the bowl on the table.

CRUNCH!

The proper food for this time of year is that which makes one feel most exactly like a rabbit. It must be crunching, crunching food, a little noisy and very fresh and gardeny, with a suggestion about it of having been pattered on by the rain and then pulled out of fresh, sweet-smelling earth. Celery and radishes and rhubarb and lettuce are the perfect ones, with their pretty colors and wonderful crunching possibilities. They must be eaten and eaten, and finally when one resembles a rabbit so closely that one's nose faintly twitches, the consciousness comes that one is eating the precisely proper food for the season.

"Couldn't be better. By climbing on the roof you can see the baseball games."—Washington Star.

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

If you saw a row of apples, everyone differing in size, ripeness and color, and all for sale at the same price, wouldn't you choose the best? Why not do the same thing when you buy fire insurance? The cost of insurance is substantially the same in all agencies, but what you get for your money varies as much as the apples in the row.

The Need of Dairy Heifers.

There is a good dearth of dairy material for our future herds the country over. The prices commanded by veal and stock stuff have lured most of our farmers into selling off their heifer calves, with no thought as to where they will draw their future supply of dairy cows. The few that have been saved are not of the quality they should be on account of their having run with the general herd of calves, eating those grains and roughages that develop bone, muscular tissue and fat, instead of being fed with a view to turning their energies to milk-production.

These facts account in large measure for the scarcity and sky-high prices of good dairy cows. Indeed, they are much higher than the profits accruing from their products will justify.

Many old or infirm cows are growing practically worthless, there are but few choice heifers to take their places, and the result is high priced cows, which cannot be avoided until this shortage is supplied or the price of cream drops until we are forced to keep only a sufficient number of cows to produce milk and butter for family use.

Our only hope of adjusting these conditions so there will be a reasonable profit realized from the maintenance of these high-priced cows is to select our very best heifers from our choicest milkers, sired by a line of milk-producing males; feed and care for them in a manner that will develop their milk-producing qualities, and hang right to them until they are matured cows. In fact there has been for the past year and is still a greater per cent. of profit to be realized in raising high-grade heifer calves until they are ready for breeding purposes than there is in handling the steers for the markets, since the heifers will eat less, require little or no more shelter, and reach their saleable age considerably in advance of the steers, thus enabling one to handle them not only at greater profit, but a much quicker one.

Sense About Silos.

Cornbell stock-farmers can much better afford silos than to forego their use, even although it be necessary to borrow the money to cover their cost. Silos are a form of insurance, protecting their owners against drought with its grassless pastures, insuring the payment of nutritious, palatable feed upon demand to live stock, conserving in digestible form practically the entire corn plant, and warranting the cash sale of hay and grain when prices are particularly attractive. It is a wonderful grip that silos give their owners on the difficult situations that arise in unfavorable seasons. They should be considered not as minor conveniences, nor yet as worth having only when a peculiar set of conditions exist. They are economically indispensable to stock farming and dairying wherever corn grows.

The kind, size and form of silo are points to be carefully studied in relation to conditions. There is no silo for which strong claims cannot truthfully be made. Durability and air-tightness are the uppermost values to be sought. Some writers have created the impression that the time at which corn is in the best condition for siloing is very brief, and that the art of making silage is difficult. Such unwarranted hair splitting has deterred many farmers from building silos. It does not require a scientist, a particular set of favorable conditions and a psychological moment to guarantee success in making silage. Corn for the silo may be cut any time past the roasting-ear stage. More corn is cut too green than ripe for siloing. The most widely accepted rule is to cut a little sooner than it is to go into shock. Practical farming does not always lend itself to cut-and-dried programs; it sometimes compels delays, hitches and a sort of recklessness—which means doing things as well and as rapidly as formidable circumstances permit.

Let no owner or prospective builder of a silo be disturbed by the floating idea that if he does not cut his corn at a certain time his chances to secure a superior grade of silage are gone. If he cannot begin filling the silo today, tomorrow will do; if something happens tomorrow, third day is coming. Inexcusable procrastination will not be tolerated. It is assumed that the work will be done well and at the right time if that is reasonably possible. But there are several weeks during which silage of high value can be made on corn.

Good Road Stories.

A good road to a good town is a good thing.

Good roads promote prosperity; bad roads provoke profanity.

Rome temples have fallen, but her good roads survive.

Life is a hard road in a poor road's neighborhood.

If the roads around a town are bad, it might as well be on an island.

In considering roads, remember there are few towns that look so good to a farmer that he will kill a horse to get there.

It urges the town to hastening ills a prey, where teams turn out to go some better way.

The town is the heart of a community, the country the body. Roads are the arteries by which they live. Good roads mean good circulation and good health.

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headache, lacked ambition, was worn-out and all rundown. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."—Mrs. Chas. Freitoy, Moosup, Conn. In 111.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

Don't make a friend of the man who is mean to his wife.

The man who turns his back to Christ makes his own hell.

The curse that is sent out against others will always go home to roost.

Don't expect much to eat where they keep boarders just for company.

FRECKLES.

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the New Drug.

An eminent skin specialist recently discovered a new drug, othine—double strength, which is so uniformly successful in removing freckles and giving a clear beautiful complexion that it is sold by W. S. Lloyd under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Success in siloing depends more upon a man's resource of mind than upon his doing this or that at a time fixed by chemistry, authority or the moon. There is great room for use of sense in building and filling silos and using silage.

Cattle feeders Becoming Progressive.

A few years ago it was an extremely difficult matter to interest cattle feeders on the subject of cotton seed meal and hulls. Kentucky being a State that produces plenty of corn, hay, oats and other feed, the feeder naturally hates to put cash money into a feed when he feels that he can raise what is necessary. However, the feeders of a progressive type have learned that a few dollars invested in high grade cotton seed meal brings mighty good dividends; in fact, since the silo has come into use in the State, silage feeders have found that it is next to impossible to fatten cattle properly without the use of cotton seed meal. The straight corn feeders have learned that it pays to feed two or three pounds of meal per day to their cattle in addition to their corn. Dairymen have ascertained that there is no better or cheaper base for a properly balanced dairy ration, as high grade cotton seed meal contains 41 per cent. of crude protein, which is one of the most essential ingredients in an animal feed. Another point in favor of the meal feeders, one of the greatest benefits derived from cattle feeding at the present day, is the re-building or re-claiming of the soil, and cotton seed meal adds most wonderfully to the value of manure. Cotton seed hulls are largely used in certain sections of the State as a roughage, and with most satisfying results. The present indications are that there will be more meal and hulls fed in the State than any year in the past on account of the relative high price of corn and hay.

HAPPY RESULTS

Have Made Many Mt. Sterling Residents Enthusiastic.

No wonder scores of Mt. Sterling citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Mt. Sterling by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Robert Sheridan, South Queen street, Mt. Sterling, Ky., says:

"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for two years and have found them to be a remedy that lives up to representations. I suffered greatly from lumbago which came on by attacks, some of which were so severe that I could hardly get around. I had pains through my back and kidneys, at times extending into my shoulders. I was also annoyed by irregular passages of the kidney secretions and I think that the hard work on the railroad was responsible for my suffering. I was unable to find relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. C. Duerson's drug store. They gave me prompt relief and I continued taking them until I was cured."

HOW TEXAS WILL CELEBRATE

To Spend $25,000,000 on Roads in Honor of One Vote That Resulted in Annexation.

Twenty-five millions of dollars is a large sum to pay out in return for one vote, but the state of Texas is going to spend that amount during the coming year as a result of one solitary vote cast in the state of Indiana many years ago. The curious explanation is as follows:

The annexation of Texas to the Union was accomplished by a majority of one vote in the senate. The deciding vote was cast by Senator Hennegan of Indiana. Senator Hennegan was elected to the senate by one vote in the Indiana house. That vote was cast by Madison Marsh, who was elected to the legislature by one vote. If Texas could discover the identity of the man who cast the one vote that elected Madison Marsh the state would probably name a new county after him. In lieu of that, however, Texas is going to spend the $25,000,000 on its roads.

SEES NO NEED FOR GROOM

Spinster Susan Plans Wedding, But Does Not Propose to Have Man Tagged to Her.

Invitations were extended today to the wedding of Spinster Susan Smith and as the name of the groom was not given an interview was sought with Spinster Sue to find the reason. "There will be no groom," said the spin. "I may have my weaknesses, but fondness for men isn't one of them, thank the Lord! Those wedding invitations are to get presents; that is all any invitations are for. I have given to brides all my life and think it only fair I should get some in return. What's a man, anyway? If the bride rolled a clothing store dummy up the aisle no one would know the difference and I don't intend to do even that. I have walked alone all my life and I guess I can walk alone to the preacher and get his blessing just as well as if I had a man tagged to me. I don't know what my father intends to give me, but I think it should be something handsome, because I don't intend to bring a son-in-law to him for support. If getting married results in the presents that are my due, I intend to have a bogus funeral later and blossom out with the plaintive airs of a widow and see what that will get me." —Atchison Globe.

WAS HOMESICK FOR PRISON

French Convict Found Himself Unable to Live in World After Long Jail Sentence.

"For heaven's sake send me back to jail. I am homesick for the place," cried Pierre Fanahr, as he dropped on his knees before the commissary of police of the Faubourg Montmartre in Paris recently. He looked weak and hungry and the commissary thought he had a mental case in hand till on inquiry he found the man really was an ex-convict.

Finishing a 20-year sentence in January, Fanahr had been given $125 with which to begin life again. But the convict was a pigeon for the thieves of Paris, who robbed him and left him penniless and friendless in the streets.

"I had friends in the convict settlement," he said. "I was happy for 20 years there. I don't want to commit a crime, so have pity and send me back."

Instead, Fanahr is now being looked after by a philanthropic society of the commissary.

MILES OF CREPE PAPER.

More than 100 miles of crepe paper, black and purple, was used by citizens of Toronto and other Canadian cities in the mourning decorations in memory of the late King Edward, the paper having been made at a plant of Appleton.

The order comprised 4,000 rolls of paper, one-half black and one-half purple.

Each roll measured up about 100 feet and the aggregate of the consignment was enough to decorate windows and streets of most of the larger Canadian cities.

The shipment is said to have been the largest of that kind of material ever made from a Wisconsin paper plant.—Appleton correspondence St. Paul Pioneer Press.

IT PROVED NOTHING.

"Let us," he said, "get a boat and go out rowing."

"If you wish to do so," she replied, "I am willing."

"Ah, darling!" he exclaimed, "now I know you love me truly. If you didn't you never would trust yourself out in a boat with me."

"That doesn't prove anything," she replied, backing away as he tried to take her in his arms. "I don't know that you wouldn't rock the boat if I went out with you, but I'm a firm believer in predestination."

COST OF SPONTANEITY.

"I want the office, of course," said the aspiring statesman, "but not unless I am the people's choice."

"We can fix that, too," said his campaign manager; "only you know it's a good deal more expensive to be the people's choice than it is to go as the compromise candidate."

THEN HE CAUGHT IT.

She (to partner claiming first dance)—You are an early bird, Mr. Glossiness.

He (gallantly)—Yes, and, by Jove! I've caught the worm. What!

RIGHT WILL PREVAIL.

BE QUIET.

Hu-s-s-h! Don't mention anything about national issues in Kentucky. It worries Judge O'Rear, and he is a very nervous man. Bradley voted for reciprocity, and Congressman Langley, manager of O'Rear's campaign, voted against it. The Republicans are split into factions on every national question, the Kentucky delegation scattering like an old muzzle loading shot gun. They cannot afford to let either their candidate for Governor, or any of their speakers, say a word on the subject of trusts, the tariff or reciprocity. So press hard on the soft pedal.

Attention, Taxpayers!

A few of the many good things the present Mayor and City Council have given the people:

An economical and business-like administration of public affairs.

A clean and inviting city in which to live by impartial and rigid enforcement of the law, including Sunday closing laws.

An adequate sanitary sewer system, without an increase in taxation and installed free from graft or even a suspicion of it.

Brick Streets at a moderate cost, which will prove to be the greatest improvement Mt. Sterling has ever had. Many new pavements, etc., etc.

ALL FOND OF NATIONAL GAME

Old Age and Infancy, and Every Grade Between, Are Interested In Baseball.

I remember being on a Chicago street car, says Ellis Parker Butler, in Success Magazine, sitting beside a nice old lady in mourning, a year or so ago. She was nervous and kept glancing at me and then glancing away again. It made me uncomfortable. I thought she took me for a pickpocket or some other bad man. Finally she could contain herself no longer. She leaned over. "Excuse me," she said, "but have you heard yet how the Cubs' game came out?" I hadn't, and her face fell, but in a moment she saw a possible opportunity for consolation. "Well," she asked, "can you tell me who they are putting in the box today?" How was that for a gray-haired grandma? In Chicago they all talk baseball, from the cradle to the grave. Up to three o'clock in the afternoon no one talks about anything but the game of the day before. From three o'clock on the only subject is the game that is being played. The school child who cannot add two apples plus three apples and make it five apples with any certainty of correctness can figure out the standing of the Chicago mines with one hand and a pencil that will make a mark only when it is held straight up and down.

INSTRUMENT EASY TO PLAY.

Russian Balalaika, Much Like Banjo, Has Attained Great Popularity in England.

All things Russian being popular in England, people have taken up the balalaika, a Russian string instrument which a few months ago was unknown there. Now there are thousands of balalaika players and balalaika orchestras enjoy a vogue. The balalaika is said to be the easiest musical instrument in the world to learn. It consists of three strings across a triangular base. The strings are struck together with the forefinger of the right hand, forming a chord; the left hand moves down the neck of the balalaika, changing the key of the chords, in the same way as a banjo is played.

In fact, the balalaika is a banjo with three strings, only the strings are never played separately. It is therefore much easier to learn than the banjo. People can learn to play simple tunes on it in ten minutes.

THE RESEMBLANCE.

A new and elaborate buffet opened in the loop district recently, says the Chicago Tribune. A design on the bronze front included the bas-relief of a southern gentleman, with broad hat and goatee.

A group of men standing in front of the place included one who seemed the personification of a Kentucky "majah." His headgear was broad and he was equipped with Buffalo Bill hirsuteness.

"I wonder," mused an observer, "if that man yonder was the model for the bronze panel. Eh?"

"Perhaps," said his companion, gazing upon the tints of the "majah" complexion. "At any rate, they both got bronzed in the same place."

MAKING A HIT.

At a small stag dinner the only young and entirely unnoteworthy person present sat throughout the meal communing with his own bashful soul, afraid lest by speaking he betray his sophistication. Dessert being served, he felt he must have some of the candied fruit at the other end of the table. Clearing his voice, he fixed the nearest waiter with a glittering eye, and, amid a sudden total silence, peremptorily called out at the top of his voice, "Pigs, fleas." —Circle Magazine.
